Jordan Troops, Guerrillas In Sharp Fighting

Confrontations Continue In Mideast Capital

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The central telephone and post office building in the capital of Jordan was battle-scarred but quiet today after a night of bitter fighting between Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian army troops.

The government issued no communique on the incident, but the Palestinians reported two guerrillas killed. The commandos were in control of the building at one point but reportedly withdrew on orders from guerrilla chieftain Yasser Arafat.

The street outside the post office was littered with broken glass and plaster this morning. The walls of nearby buildings were pockmarked with bullet holes.

Hardly a window was left intact in the glass facade of the building, located on one of Amman's main streets.

Guerrillas in patrol cars cruised elsewhere in the capital today but avoided the post office area. Government troops also kept out of sight.

The fighting began three hours after the closing session of the Palestine National Council, the Palestinian parliament in exile.

The council issued a firm re-initiative in the Middle East. It also warned against plots to liquidate the Palestinian revolution.

According to one guerrilla, the shooting started when members of the radical Popular Democratic Front tried to put up a poster near the post office urging action against "reactionary groups in the Jordan regime."

In Jerusalem, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban called for an "honorable compromise" in a speech directed toward the Arab people. Speaking fluent Arabic over Israeli radio and television, Eban said:

"In a state of peace, Israel does not aspire to hold all the areas now under its control. An honorable compromise is possible and necessary."

He said he advocated coexistence between Israel and the Arab states and the negotiation of permanent, secure boundaries for Israel. He said Israel would be willing to give up territory it gained in the 1967 Middle East war, but he gave no details.

U.N. special envoy Gunnar Jarring of Sweden, who is mediating the negotiations, had no appointments Friday, but a spokesman said he "is continuing his work and consultations."

Miss Clark is 5-foot-5 and weighs 130 pounds. Her first prize includes $3,000 in cash, $5,000 for personal appearances, and a Caribbean trip.

Ship Contract Collision Due In Washington

Stennis Defends Deep South In Feud With Maine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Northeast and Deep South shipbuilding interests, armed with the big guns from the Armed Services Committee, are streaking at full speed toward a collision in the Senate Tuesday.

The battle is over a $2.1 billion defense contract-sharing proposal — with Mississippi Democrat John Stennis, Armed Services chairman, and the Navy taking on Maine Republican Margaret Chase Smith, ranking minority member of the committee.

Launching floor debate on a military procurement bill amendment to require two shipyards to share equally in production of 30 Navy destroyers, Stennis made a detailed defense Friday of the Navy's choice of a firm in his state as the sole source of the new ships.

Stennis denounced the amendment advanced by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. Stennis said it would make Congress the "final and supreme contracting agency" and would set "a very bad precedent which would plague us for many years to come."

Muskie's amendment, supported by Mrs. Smith who has fired a series of blasts at the Navy's handling of the contract, would make "a farce of and undermine the integrity of the competitive process," Stennis charged.

A vote on the amendment is set for Tuesday.

Stennis praised the selection of Litton Industries' Ingalls Division at Pascagoula, Miss., over Maine's Bath Iron Works as winner of the contract for assembly-line creation of a new destroyer fleet.

Panther Jury Delays Verdict

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Deliberations enter a fourth day today in the trial of Black Panther Lonnie McClucas, charged with conspiracy and kidnapping in the death of a fellow Panther.

The two blacks and 10 whites on the jury were kept Friday a half hour past the 5 p.m. recess time of the previous two days since they received the case.

Young supporters of McClucas continue a demonstration on the New Haven Green, about a half block from the courthouse.

Legion Leader Spurns Rebels

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The national commander of the American Legion says it would be "a waste of time" to discuss Vietnam and other issues with some youthful dissenters and has rejected a request to put such a discussion on the agenda of the Legion convention.

J. Milton Patrick of Skiatook, Ore., was responding to a request by the People's Army Jamboree, a group organizing antiwar demonstrations during the Legion convention which opened Friday.

"We are always interested in speaking with these youths," Patrick, 54, said Friday, but added: "Some that I have seen on television, to some things I have read that were going to confront us—to these types of individuals, no. I think it would be a waste of time. I don't think I could sell them my views and I don't think they could sell me theirs."

An estimated 14,000 Legionnaires are on hand for the convention and an estimated 13,000 young dissenters are in the area, most of them at rock music festivals near here.

Some 4,700 National Guard troops were activated and another 1,300 were placed on alert. Organizers of the People's Army Jamboree have said their objective is to confront the Legion because of its hawkish stand on the Vietnam war.

Democrat Keynote Speaker Charges Nixon 'Betrayal'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Nixon Administration has betrayed the American people, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., told more than 700 persons Friday night at the $50-a-plate Democratic fund raising dinner here.

Eagleton, keynote speaker at the two-day Ohio Democratic Convention, said the administration is dividing the country by its "conscious policy of setting American against American."

The first-term senator leveled most of his charges against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. He said the vice president is "overtly and intentionally trying to divide the nation."

Eagleton also charged that Agnew has been lax in his job by not attending meetings of committees on which he serves as chairman.

Agnew attended a "fund raising luncheon for well-heeled Republicans" and missed the May 28 meeting of the President's Council on Youth Opportunity of which he is chairman, Eagleton said.

He said Democratic polls indicate there is an excellent chance of the party retaining the U.S. Senate seat, being vacated by the retirement of Sen. Stephen M. Young.

Howard M. Metzger, former Young campaign manager, is the party's nominee for the seat.

Convention delegates were scheduled to act today on a resolution asking Atty. Gen. Paul

Penn Central Asks Delay In Tax Payments

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Penn Central Railroad is asking for permission to delay paying $45 million in taxes due after last June 21 to some 2,600 governmental bodies.

The financially distressed railroad is reorganizing under federal bankruptcy laws.

The railroad's four court-appointed trustees filed a petition Friday in U.S. District Court asking deferment of all corporate and property taxes due from the June 21 date it filed for reorganization until Dec. 31.

"Because of the financial condition of the Penn Central including its present cash shortage, the trustees are without funds to meet all of the payments as they become due," the petition stated.

Judge John P. Fullam set a hearing on the request for Sept. 17.

Mrs. Nixon Better After Virus Attack

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon, himself, gave the report that his wife, Pat, is feeling much better and just about recovered from a "summer virus."

Mrs. Nixon had been ailing for two days and the White House physician, Dr. William Lukash, suggested she stay home Thursday night when the President went to a musical show at the Los Angeles Music Center.

Anti-Pentagon Amendment Gets Humphrey's Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate measure to halt U.S. battlefield actions in Vietnam has the support of former Vice President Hubert Humphrey, once an advocate for former President Lyndon B. Johnson's war policy.

Humphrey, titular leader of the Democratic party and campaigning in Minnesota for a Senate seat, announced his support of the McGovern-Hatfield amendment, saying, "It offers every possible protection for American military manpower and will bring our men safely home."

The amendment, Humphrey said in a telegram to Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., "together with a standstill ceasefire and the conduct of new free elections in South Vietnam, provides our best hope for peace."

Meanwhile in Friday's floor debate, Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., scorned the measure as the "lose the peace amendment," adding he could not believe it had been introduced with any idea of becoming law. Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., responded to criticism from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and others that the measure is a blueprint for America's first military defeat.

"Is it disloyal to America to vote for the preservation of American lives?" Hatfield asked. "Is it wrong to vote for withdrawal from a war in which victory is not the goal?"

In essence the amendment holds President Nixon to his announced reduced troop level of 280,000 by next April, forbids spending beyond April for anything but withdrawal of all troops by Dec. 31, 1971, and grants asylum for any Vietnamese asking it.

Agnew Tells Thais He'll Fight Foes Of Asian Policy

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has assured Thai leaders that he will "leave no stone unturned" in efforts to overturn congressional efforts to curb U.S. aid in Southeast Asia, Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said today.

Thanat said at a news conference that while the majority of the American people and the Nixon administration back U.S. efforts, "there are certain elements which would like nothing better than to push Southeast Asia into Communist hands."

He charged that these elements "want chaos and want to see complete failure of the Nixon Doctrine," under which the United States would help Asian nations defend themselves and help their neighbors.

"The vice president assured the Thai prime minister that he will leave no stone unturned to bring about an effective and prompt and adequate implementation of the Nixon Doctrine," Thanat added.

The foreign minister said Thailand would consider sending troops to Cambodia "only if the threat becomes acute."

"We shall avoid to the maximum extent possible a direct introduction (of troops) into Cambodia," he said.

The foreign minister gave no names in his mention of "certain elements" in the U.S. Congress.

Asked if he was referring to Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and other antiwar leaders, Thanat replied: "You are very well informed people. There is no need for me to indulge in personalities."

Thanat said the talks with Agnew dealt with principles, rather than specifics. In an earlier news conference for Thai reporters, the foreign minister said Agnew promised he would do what he could to assure that U.S. aid for Thailand is maintained at the present level.

Agnew conferred with the Thai leaders for more than two hours this morning and at a working lunch. One point they made was that Thailand would want financial aid in return for sending troops or other assistance to Cambodia.

The disclosure came one day after an announcement from the U.S. State Department that Thailand plans to withdraw all or most of its 12,000-man force from South Vietnam.

Agnew arrived in Bangkok Friday on the last stop of a five-nation tour through Asia. He returns to the United States Sunday.

It's Home Again For Soldier, 15

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP) — Walter Martin, a husky 15-year-old who served two hitches and says he was twice wounded in Vietnam although the Army claims he never legally enlisted, said today he may sue the Army for refusing to recognize his service.

"The Army will take things from you if you owe them," said Martin at the end of a journey home from Ft. Carson, Colo. "But it'll break your leg before it pays you what you got coming."

A coconut cake and a mother with tear-red eyes and a spruced up hairdo waited for Martin in this southwest Florida community when he arrived, hitching the last 100 miles with a reporter.

Martin, dressed in a white tee shirt and dungarees, had arrived at Tampa International Airport at 12:35 a.m. after the long journey from Ft. Carson where his masquerade ended.

The boy, whose travels began at age 12, had been charged briefly with fraud for fooling the Army but charges were dismissed in Colorado Springs Friday afternoon.

"He's tired, has a headache and does not want to be disturbed," said a relative when Martin got to his mother's apartment here.

Asst. U.S. Atty. James Richards said in Denver Thursday that the 6-foot-3, 198-pound youth had joined the Army at the age of 12 as James J. Wilson, went to Vietnam, was wounded, unmasked and sent home.

Martin somehow rejoined the military forces in Vietnam under the name S. Sgt. Albert Lewis Jr. and was wounded again, Richards said.

But Lt. Col. George D. Barrant, public affairs information officer for Fort Carson and the 5th Infantry Division, said the Army does not officially recognize that Martin served.

"He was not officially in, did not officially enlist or enter through any normal method," Barrant said. "He was, in fact, not a soldier. He isn't a soldier. That's why he was turned over to the U.S. attorney's office."

The youth was picked up while posing as Lewis and serving in a military police company at Ft. Carson. The U.S. attorney's office said it entered the case because Martin filed a claim of $166 against the government while posing as Lewis.

The charge of fraud on the government was dismissed Friday and he was freed from the El Paso County jail, where he had been held under $1,500 bond.

Six Americans Killed In Viet Ambush Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces moved to within six miles of Phnom Penh today in their closest major attack yet to the Cambodian capital.

In Vietnam, North Vietnamese forces killed six Americans and wounded 26 in the worst ambush in at least four months.

The enemy assault in Cambodia was at the village of Moat Krasas Krao, six miles northeast of the capital. It did not appear timed to coincide with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's visit Friday to Phnom Penh.

The attack began seven hours after Agnew had left Cambodia for Thailand. Prior to the vice president's arrival, a general lull was reported in the five-month-old Cambodian war.

Maj. Am Rong, the Cambodian military spokesman, said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops bombarded government positions with mortars through the night. At daybreak, he said, the enemy force mounted another assault.

Cambodian forces were reported moving into the region, and fighting was continuing at last report. There was no word of casualties.

Allied warplanes bombed and strafed the enemy positions in efforts to push back the assault.

The air support included Cambodian fighter-bombers and either U.S. or South Vietnamese planes. Am Rong declined to identify the planes further, but informed sources in Saigon said they had no reports of American air support in the area.

There have been several battles in the Prek Tameak area, including a three-day fight earlier this week. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong apparently are trying to gain a foothold there from which to harass the Phnom Penh area.

Foreign Air Executives Support SST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Responding to a Nixon administration request for their views, four foreign airlines have urged development of a U.S. supersonic transport plane by the late 1970s.

Executives of foreign airlines were asked their opinions in connection with the administration request for $290 million to start construction of two 1,800-mile-per-hour SSTs for flight tests. The prototypes will be built by the Boeing Co.

As endorsements from foreign carriers were being released, the SST continued under attack before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Dr. Richard L. Garwin, a member of President Nixon's science advisory committee, said one SST would make more noise than 100 of the big Boeing 747s now in operation. He said noise-suppression equipment would make the plane too expensive to operate.

J. Donald Reilly, executive vice president of the Airport Operators Council International, told the subcommittee Los Angeles International Airport already has banned the British-French Concorde, due in 1974, and the U.S. SST because of excessive noise.

Reilly said his organization, which represents major airports in all 50 states, is not against the SST but favors "an environmentally sound SST."

He urged Congress to amend the $290 million appropriation to require the SST to meet all noise standards in effect for slower-than-sound jets.

The Nixon administration contends the United States must develop the SST to keep its leadership in world aviation.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The show is the Ohio State Fair — "Expohio '70." Today's stars are the Doc Sevensen show, Midwestern Hayride, Charlie Pride and clear, sunny skies.

Attendance Friday climbed to 195,843 — 31,000 more than the second day of last year — and pushed the two-day total to 390,381 — an increase of 56,000 over the last year's record attendance. Fair officials are hoping to break the 12-day mark of 2,053,971 set last year.

Animals — more than 17,000 of them — became a major point of interest Friday as livestock judging began.

A Marion County girl, Marilyn Sue Isler, 18, of Prospect, set a record by winning her second consecutive Junior Division barrow title. Her Chester White barrow was named grand champion. While Miss Isler was making her fourth visit to the fair, a 10-year-old Bucyrus girl showed the grand champion market lamb in her first trip to the Exposition Center.

Karen Clime's lamb took top honors while James Jagger, 18, of Mount Gilead showed the reserve champion lamb and the champion pen of three market lambs.

Forest Fires Run Rampant

The fire victim was Willie Shaw of Portland, killed Thursday night when struck by a wind-felled dead tree.

He charged that these elements "want chaos and want to see complete failure of the Nixon Doctrine," under which the United States would help Asian nations defend themselves and help their neighbors.

"The vice president assured the Thai prime minister that he will leave no stone unturned to bring about an effective and prompt and adequate implementation of the Nixon Doctrine," Thanat added.

The foreign minister said Thailand would consider sending troops to Cambodia "only if the threat becomes acute."

"We shall avoid to the maximum extent possible a direct introduction (of troops) into Cambodia," he said.

The foreign minister gave no names in his mention of "certain elements" in the U.S. Congress.

Asked if he was referring to Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and other antiwar leaders, Thanat replied: "You are very well informed people. There is no need for me to indulge in personalities."

Thanat said the talks with Ag-

new dealt with principles, rather than specifics. In an earlier news conference for Thai reporters, the foreign minister said Agnew promised he would do what he could to assure that U.S. aid for Thailand is maintained at the present level.

Agnew conferred with the Thai leaders for more than two hours this morning and at a working lunch. One point they made was that Thailand would want financial aid in return for sending troops or other assistance to Cambodia.

The disclosure came one day after an announcement from the U.S. State Department that Thailand plans to withdraw all or most of its 12,000-man force from South Vietnam.

Agnew arrived in Bangkok Friday on the last stop of a five-nation tour through Asia. He returns to the United States Sunday.

Roundtown

FIRST call for breakfast ... And it was a false alarm

Firemen were alerted to a home on Hayward St. early this morning when a neighbor noticed smoke coming from the kitchen ... Figuring that where there is smoke there is fire, the neighbor estimated the blaze might be serious ... It was! Bread that was being toasted for breakfast got overly done ... There was no damage other than to the family's morning meal.

It's Home Again For Soldier, 15

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP) — Walter Martin, a husky 15-year-old who served two hitchhikes and says he was twice wounded in Vietnam although the Army claims he never legally enlisted, said today he may sue the Army for refusing to recognize his service.

"The Army will take things from you if you owe them," said Martin at the end of a journey home from Ft. Carson, Colo. "But it'll break your leg before it pays you what you got coming."

A coconut cake and a mother with tear-redened eyes and a spruced up hairdo waited for Martin in this southwest Florida community when he arrived, hitching the last 100 miles with a reporter.

Martin, dressed in a white tee shirt and dungarees, had arrived at Tampa International Airport at 12:35 a.m. after the long journey from Ft. Carson where his masquerade ended.

The boy, whose travels began at age 12, had been charged briefly with fraud for fooling the Army but charges were dismissed in Colorado Springs Friday afternoon.

"He's tired, has a headache and does not want to be disturbed," said a relative when Martin got to his mother's apartment here.

Six Americans Killed In Viet Ambush Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces moved to within six miles of Phnom Penh today in their closest major attack yet to the Cambodian capital.

In Vietnam, North Vietnamese forces killed six Americans and wounded 26 in the worst ambush in at least four months.

The enemy assault in Cambodia was at the village of Moat Krasas Krao, six miles north-east of the capital. It did not appear timed to coincide with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's visit Friday to Phnom Penh.

The attack began seven hours after Agnew had left Cambodia for Thailand. Prior to the vice president's arrival, a general lull was reported in the five-month-old Cambodian war.

Maj. Am Rong, the Cambodian military spokesman, said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops bombarded government positions with mortars through the night. At daybreak, he said, the enemy force mounted another assault.

Cambodian forces were reported moving into the region, and fighting was continuing at last report. There was no word of casualties.

Allied warplanes bombed and strafed the enemy positions in efforts to push back the assault.

The air support included Cambodian fighter-bombers and either U.S. or South Vietnamese planes. Am Rong declined to identify the planes further, but informed sources in Saigon said they had no reports of American air support in the area.

There have been several battles in the Prek Tameak area, including a three-day fight earlier this week. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong apparently are trying to gain a foothold there from which to harass the Phnom Penh area.

Foreign Air Executives Support SST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Responding to a Nixon administration request for their views, four foreign airlines have urged development of a U.S. supersonic transport plane by the late 1970s.

Executives of foreign airlines were asked their opinions in connection with the administration request for $290 million to start construction of two 1,800-mile-per-hour SSTs for flight tests. The prototypes will be built by the Boeing Co.

As endorsements from foreign carriers were being released, the SST continued under attack before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Dr. Richard L. Garwin, a member of President Nixon's science advisory committee, said one SST would make more noise than 100 of the big Boeing 747s now in operation. He said noise-suppression equipment would make the plane too expensive to operate.

J. Donald Reilly, executive vice president of the Airport Operators Council International, told the subcommittee Los Angeles International Airport already has banned the British-French Concorde, due in 1974, and the U.S. SST because of excessive noise.

Reilly said his organization, which represents major airports in all 50 states, is not against the SST but favors "an environmentally sound SST."

He urged Congress to amend the $290 million appropriation to require the SST to meet all noise standards in effect for slower-than-sound jets.

The Nixon administration contends the United States must develop the SST to keep its leadership in world aviation.

"Children don't care what they wear," is a false statement. Clothes are important to both boys and girls. Children want clothes like those of their playmates. They don't want to be dressed in clothes which are different.

Permitting the child to wear clothes he likes may prevent some fist fights and hurt feelings. Clothes add to a child's happiness, poise and self-confidence, and help him to become a well-adjusted adult. He needs to be at ease and comfortable in his clothes.

Consider children's needs as well as their likes. Some clothes must give protection and warmth; others need to launder and require minimum special care. Self-help features encourage children to develop initiative and self-reliance.

Try to make dressing and undressing an easy and happy experience for your child. Encourage him as soon as he shows interest in doing this for himself. Self-help features that you might look for include: front or easy reach openings, roomy neck openings, buttons reasonably far apart if in long rows, minimum number of openings, elastic waistbands and markings to tell front from back.

It is an important aspect of children's clothing. A well-fitted garment for a child is relatively loose — not snug. It allows for movement — bending, stooping, reaching, running and climbing. It doesn't bind at the neck, waist, or armhole. The neck opening is large enough to slip easily over the head. For separates, select shirts and blouses long enough to stay tucked in and pants and skirts snug enough at the waist to stay in place. Be sure the crotch in pants is long enough for comfort.

Buying clothes which are too large for a child is false economy. Too large, uncomfortable clothes may make a child feel unhappy, defensive or inferior. Besides, the child's proportion is not likely to be the same as the clothes. When purchasing sizes too large, the clothes are apt to be faded and worn by the time they fit correctly. Design features rather than extra size should allow for growth. These design features may include: elasticized or tabbed waistlines, no waistline seam in dresses, raglan sleeves, wide seam allowances, ample hems, and garments made of stretch fabrics.

Today's fabrics for children's clothes can be a great help to mom on laundry day. You'll want to choose permanent press fabrics and those with self-release features. This will be identified on the label along with other important care facts. Be sure to read the hang tags carefully to learn how to launder the garments for longest wear.

7 Cities Join 'Critical' List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven more major cities have been added to the Labor Department's list of "substantial" unemployment, which means six to 8.9 per cent of the local labor force is out of a job.

The additions, announced Thursday, bring to 31 the number of cities in this category, the highest total in nearly six years. Added to the list were Detroit, the nation's auto production center; New Orleans; San Jose, Calif.; and Spokane, Wash., both home to key segments of the aerospace industry: Bridgeport, Conn.; Battle Creek, Mich.; and Corpus Christi, Tex.

The nation's over-all jobless rate is five per cent of the work force, highest in five years. A spokesman for the AFL-CIO labor federation blamed economic policies of the Nixon administration.

Fall Soil Testing Is Best

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Fall soil testing has the edge over spring testing on several counts, says R. H. Follett, Extension agronomist at the Ohio State University.

For one thing, he points out, farmers who test in the fall get the jump on those who wait until spring.

The soil laboratory is always busier during the spring months than in the fall and a short delay at that time can mean the difference in getting lime and fertilizer (based on test results) applied or not applied.

Fall testing gives the farm operator and the dealer time during the winter to work out the next seasons fertility program.

Another advantage of fall testing is that fall purchase of fertilizers can save you money, and that's what the whole thing's about — squeezing out more profit through better management. Fertilizer manufacturers usually give fall and early winter fertilizer discounts, resulting from off season storage costs.

Probably just as important, though, is the timing of lime applications. If your soil test indicates a need for lime, the fall and winter months are ideal for getting this material applied. In addition, phosphorus and potassium and even nitrogen, in some cases, can be applied during the fall.

It may be easier to test the soil in the fall, too, because the land is normally not as wet as in the spring. Fall testing also aids the grower in remembering more vividly the particular problems and field conditions of the season just past. Thus, he can sample more accurately and take more time to collect the sample, there is no seasonal rush in the fall.

Tests have shown that samples taken in the fall are just as reliable as those taken in the spring. However, you must remember that test results and resulting fertilizer recommendations are only as good as the sampling technique, Follett emphasizes. The sampling technique is likely to be more accurate if the sampler has more time and the field is in a good condition for sampling.

So, it boils down to fall testing for all around best results — fertilizer grades and better prices available in fall, farm labor requirements at a low peak, field conditions usually better for testing, and with the fertility program already planned and materials applied, wet fields in the spring will not delay planting.

See your county agricultural agent right away for details on the soil testing program and sampling techniques. The extension office is located at 137 W. Franklin Street, Circleville, Ohio. The telephone number is 474-7534.

Actinopelte is a leaf spot disease on oak. But don't be alarmed by this $2 word or the disease. It's not likely to kill the tree anyway, if the infection is light. The disease may appear in various size lesions or spots. If you look closely at these spots, you'll see a small raised area in the center of each. This is the felt-like cushion where the fungal spores are produced. Winds and rains help spread the spores from leaf to leaf or tree to tree.

Weakened leaves may be more susceptible to the disease, but warm humid conditions this summer have been favorable for the buildup of the leaf spot. It's too late to protect the leaves this year, however, you can rake and burn, compost, or otherwise remove the leaves from the area as they fall.

Fertilizing the tree will promote vigor for the coming year. If you have the leaf spot each year, better consider a spray program. Start when the buds break, spray again when buds are full grown, and a third time 10 days after the second if weather remains wet.

Materials such as ferbam 76 per cent WP at 2 1/2 tablespoons per gallon of water or a fixed copper 50 per cent WP at two tablespoons per gallon can be used effectively.

Those bright yellow spots on the leaves of crabapple and hawthorne are due to a variegation in the leaf. They are caused by a fungus that can become so severe it can defoliate the tree. The disease is caused by cedar-apple rust and cedar-hawthorn rust fungi. These fungi are different from other organisms in that they require two different hosts on which to live and survive. These are juniper or red cedar and pomaceous plants such as apple and hawthorn.

The colorful spots first appear pale yellow on the upper leaf surface but quickly enlarge and become yellowish - orange to orange-red in color with a reddish border. On the lower surface of the leaves, directly under the spot, small orange to brown fringed tubes or cup-shaped structures are produced. The spores blow back to the cedar or juniper and renew the cycle.

The best control is to remove the alternate hosts, but this is often impractical. Therefore, you must spray the apple or hawthorn with ferbam 76 per cent WP at 2 1/2 tablespoons per gallon of water or zineb 75 per cent WP at one tablespoon per gallon beginning when the flower buds open.

Meany Rejects 'Preference' For Black Workers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says his labor organization will help advance the cause of civil rights, but will not give blacks "preferred status."

Speaking before some 2,500 delegates to the convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Meany said:

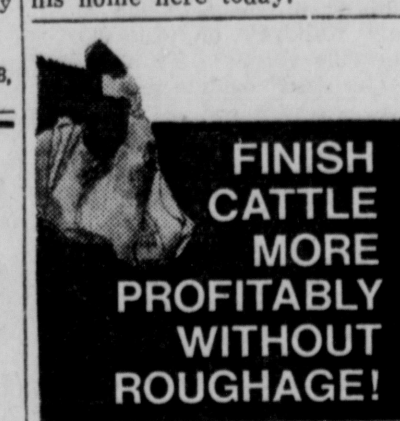

"I am completely in accord with the standards of the skilled trades that they are not going to lower the standards in order to meet this problem."

Speaking of student unrest, Meany said, "The suspicion arises that the main idea is that they want to destroy our educational system..."

"Dissent can be a means of improvement, but dissent without purpose seems to make no sense whatsoever. The right to dissent does not mean the right to loot and burn."

Meany Rejects 'Preference' For Black Workers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says his labor organization will help advance the cause of civil rights, but will not give blacks "preferred status."

Speaking before some 2,500 delegates to the convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Meany said:

"I am completely in accord with the standards of the skilled trades that they are not going to lower the standards in order to meet this problem."

Speaking of student unrest, Meany said, "The suspicion arises that the main idea is that they want to destroy our educational system..."

"Dissent can be a means of improvement, but dissent without purpose seems to make no sense whatsoever. The right to dissent does not mean the right to loot and burn."

The higher suicide rate for men, says Dr. John Altrocchi of Duke University, is explainable by their preference for firearms, which are often effective. Women, who seem to prefer swallowing pills, are often unaware of what constitutes a fatal dose and may have time to reconsider. Attempts, however, are almost three times more frequent among women.

State Department Seeks To Soothe Seoul's Fears

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials have told Korean Embassy representatives Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was looking into the future when he talked recently of a complete withdrawal of American forces following modernization of the South Korean army.

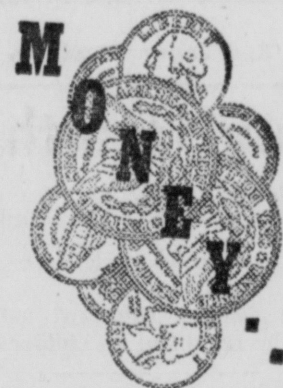

U.S. authorities pointed out Agnew did not say there are plans for total withdrawal of U.S. ground forces. There is too much to be done at this time in preparing for a 20,000-man cut-back which will be completed by June 30, 1971, they said.

Some officials here displayed surprise that Agnew had projected U.S. withdrawals at a time when Koreans are alarmed by the reduction of 20,000 men. They questioned whether his mission had proven reassuring to the government of President Park Chung-hee.

But experts on U.S. policy say the Korean government has been told many times the United States could not and would not make any commitment on the type of forces or the period of time these forces would be kept in Korea.

The Korean government also has been assured the United

who served as defense counsel in the "Chicago Seven" trial, was here Friday preparing a suit challenging disruption rules at Ohio State University as well as the state's new campus disorders law.

Kunstler came to the city to confer with attorneys William J. Davis, Robert L. Van Heyde and William E. Boyland. Davis said they expect to file the action in U. S. District Court within two weeks.

The attorneys also plan to seek a preliminary injunction against OSU seeking to have the dismissal of two black students set aside so they can attend fall classes.

The new state law requiring dismissal of students and faculty members convicted of disruptive acts becomes effective Sept. 16.

Test Of 18-Year Vote

When Congress took to itself the power to grant the ballot to 18-year-olds in all elections — federal, state and local — it all but intentionally passed the question of constitutionality to the United States Supreme Court. Fortunately, it appears that the court will lack no opportunity to give an answer.

The U.S. Justice Department has just filed what are the third and fourth suits testing the question. Unlike the first two, brought by Oregon and Texas against the age clause only, the department is also seeking, in suits against Arizona and Idaho, a ruling on the new law's uniform-residency clause for presidential voting and its literacy-test ban.

It would seem that Oregon and Texas offer a more clear-cut test of the 18-year vote, since they raise the direct question of overriding state constitutions by act of Congress — particularly in an area where states have long held the prerogative.

But whatever the legal technicalities, the litigants are showing commendable interest in seeking to dissipate the constitutional clouds with all reasonable speed.

Cyclamate Cycle

It's hard to keep up with the Food and Drug Administration's communiques on cyclamates and their use. It's equally difficult to have much confidence that the Washington experts know what they're doing.

For years, cyclamates were used to make foods and drinks more palatable without adding the caloric content of sugar. Then last October the FDA announced a ban on cyclamates on the ground that a metabolic by-product had been found to cause cancer in rats.

The ban, however, turned out to be somewhat less than complete. It was soon modified to allow limited sales of products containing cyclamates to persons suffering from diabetes, hypertension and obesity, on the ground that their special problems required restrictions on the use of sugar.

Now, abruptly, the FDA has reinstated its total ban, as of Sept. 1. Only a research chemist can judge whether the FDA's smarter in August than it was in April. But many persons would feel better about the whole thing if the dispute didn't involve the fortunes of the sugar industry, which has one of the most powerful lobbies in Washington.

Steam Power

Geothermal fields are not new. They are caused by very hot rocks pushing up from the earth's interior over a period of time until they come in contact with underground water.

Most geothermal fields tapped in the past have had a high saline content — too high for feasible exploitation as a power source. But recent discoveries of fields in the Imperial Valley of California indicate a much lower saline content, so low they might economically be developed as sources of both power and water.

One estimate of the southern California steam "mines" is that they might produce 20,000 megawatts of power a year for at least three decades. One megawatt is 1 million watts. It might, however, require as many as 5,000 wells to harness the underground ocean effectively, but it could be worth it.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The 50 million middle-aged Americans between 40 and 65 make up only a fourth of the population, but they earn more than half the national income, own more than half of the stock in all U.S. corporations, account for 40 per cent of the female labor force, and vote more than any other age group.

So how about a National Middle-Age Day to salute them?

One of the most restricted groups of people on earth are the 100,000 Chinese who live aboard fishing and cargo junks in Hong Kong harbor. Many spend their entire lives aboard these picturesque vessels without ever stepping ashore.

Businessmen's conventions are no longer stag parties. Some 2,825,000 delegates attended 829 conventions in New York City last year, and 60 per cent of the men brought along their wives.

Sleep doesn't come cheap in this country. We now are spending more than $80 million annually for sleeping pills and potions of all kinds—plus millions more for such sleeping aids as ear plugs, eye masks and mechanical vibrating beds.

Never monkey around with a chimpanzee. One of these apes weighing 120 pounds or less, if aroused, could maul a 250-pound pro football tackle unconscious and leave him toothless in less than a minute.

Quotable notables: "Doing well is all that matters."—Poet Robert Frost.

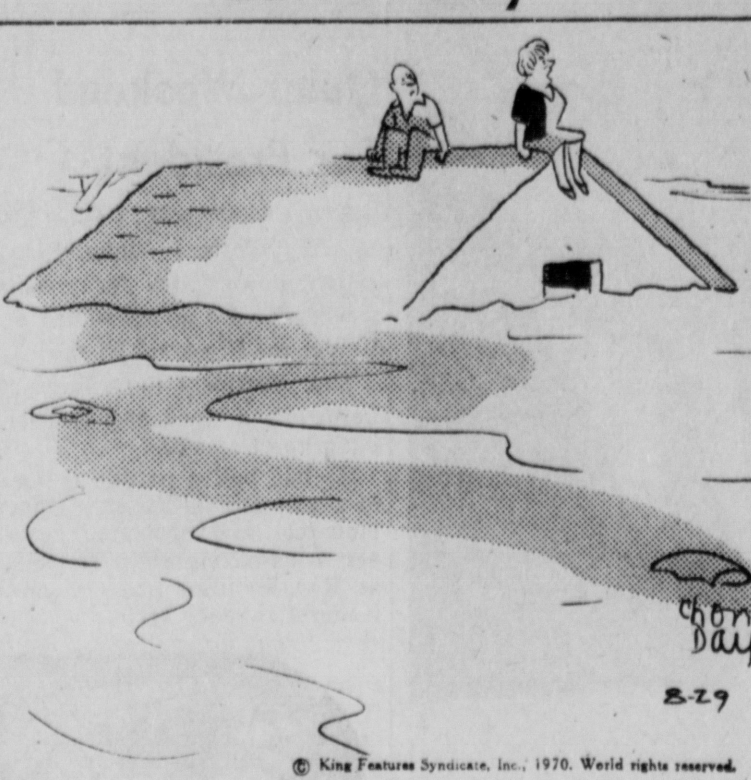

Mighty mama: Nothing man-made approaches the sheer power of Mother Nature. It is estimated that a single tornado can generate 100 million kilowatts of energy—about a third of the capacity of all the electrical power stations in the United States put together.

Worth remembering: "If you can't think of any other way to flatter a man, tell him he's the kind who can't be flattered."

Dobbin returns: Horses, like people, are having a population explosion. The 15 million horses counted on farms in 1915 had dropped to three million by 1959. But now, thanks to a new interest in riding, the number has crept above the seven million mark.

Some birds, ornithologists say, sing up to 18 hours a day. Wouldn't it be wonderful if human beings felt they had that much to sing about

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A GROUP of venerable citizens at one of those retirement homes was having a high old time discussing their various ills and pains. One had arthritis, another indigestion, a third insomnia, and so on. At length, a spry octogenarian on the fringe of the gathering, cackled, "Think of it this way, folks: it all proves that old age sure ain't for sissies!"

Innovations are often tough to put across — particularly when the customers are stolid, habit-ridden Britons. T. S. Crawford, in an oddly engrossing book called "A History of the Umbrella," tells that one earlier user thereof was actually assaulted one rainy day by virtuous citizens for brazenly defying the heavenly purpose of rain, which obviously was designed by the Lord to make people wet!

Worse even than that, continues Mr. Crawford, was the fate suffered by one James Heatherington who had the temerity to introduce the silk top hat on a London street on January 5, 1797. Women fainted, men screamed, and Heatherington was hauled up before the Lord Mayor, who fined him fifty pounds for "having appeared on a public highway wearing upon his head a tall structure having a shining lustre and calculated to frighten timid people."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

It must not go unnoticed that a man with severe cerebral palsy has been so completely rehabilitated that he has written a brilliant new book despite his handicap.

Christy Brown was able to write and type his entire manuscript with his toes. This accomplishment alone would have been great, but the book itself is truly outstanding.

He has learned to paint magnificent canvases and to express all the emotions that his intelligent and sensitive mind creates.

What is most important is that we have again learned that the cerebral palsied child must not be discarded or disregarded by society because of his physical limitations.

Exploration and encouragement of the intellectual capacities of these children can bring to them a great deal of personal happiness. Society, too, benefits by the valuable contributions that emanate from the sheer courage and will of these afflicted people.

The dedicated educators of children who are born with this and other disorders must be encouraged to continue the valuable program that pays such limitless dividends.

Christy Brown's novels, "Down All the Days" and "My Left Foot" must be read by all of us to get a better insight into the courage of a man.

In a recent article, I stressed the epidemic proportion of gonorrhea as it exists today in the United States. Nearly 500,000 cases were reported in 1969. One of the major reasons for the massive distribution of this disease is the inability to control it because it lies dormant and without symptoms in some women.

A vast study has been reported in the New England Journal of Medicine on the problem of gonorrhea. It is probably the most common reported infectious disease in the United States.

Dr. David W. Johnson and a large team of other doctors working at the United States Naval Preventive Medicine Unit Number Six in Pearl Harbor have devised a form of treatment that may be of great value.

Women without symptoms but with suspected disease volunteered to be hospitalized so that this major study could be undertaken. A massive single dose treatment of antibiotics in these women seemed effective in controlling the latent disease.

It is hoped that out of this will come tremendous information about the control of this disease in women who give no symptomatic evidence of it.

The fishing rules of safety must be taught to all children.

News Vendor Testifies In Manson Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A wealthy middle-aged couple, far removed from Hollywood's glittering young social set, read curiously of the Sharon Tate murders before killers stabbed them to death in similar bizarre style, a witness has testified at the Tate murder trial.

A news vendor, John Fokianos, said that the night Leno and Rosemary LaBianca were slain he chatted with them about the Tate killings.

"It was the event of the day," he testified Thursday. "It was big news. They seemed quite interested."

Fokianos told newsmen later that Mrs. LaBianca "seemed quite emotional about it. She seemed quite upset because it was quite gruesome. The details naturally got to her."

Their chat was between 1 and 2 a.m. Aug. 10, 1969. The state says that about 2:30 or 3 a.m., the LaBiancas were killed by intruders.

Police testified similarities to the Tate killings led them to declare that these were "copycat" killings.

Charles M. Manson, 35, leader of a roving hippie-style "family," and three women followers, Susan Atkins, 21, Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, and Leslie Van Houten, 20, are on trial for murder-conspiracy in the five Tate slayings and the two LaBianca killings.

Another Ohioan, Army Pvt. David J. Campbell, of Wilmington was listed as having died of causes not related to combat.

The Business World

By LINDA RUBEY (For John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — The great genius of American industry is the art of management and organization, almost everyone concedes.

Foreign companies clamor for men with experience in American firms, for American management consultants, for anyone who can teach them the management techniques that have so far sustained the affluent society. And American managers are just as high in their praise when they evaluate the system that has almost put a "chicken in every pot," or translated into modern terms, two cars in every garage.

All of which sounds good until one considers the performance, or rather lack of performance, in the business community in the past year.

The current slump in the business cycle is hardly conducive to bold leaps forward. But if American management is doing so many things right, why are so many things going wrong? Is it perhaps that American management rates star billing only when times are good for selling.

"We Americans have always taken a lot of pleasure in telling ourselves how good we are," observes George F. Lombard, senior associate dean for educational affairs at the Harvard University Business School. "And it's equally true that the American business culture, as are most business cultures, is relatively success-oriented."

Lombard contends that American business would perform better if it attempted to operate with an understanding of broad social problems rather than just concentrating on its own limited area of interest.

To clarify the point, Lombard points to a passage in the book "The Theory of Social Revolutions" written decades ago by a man named Brooks Adams. According to Adams, the American specialty is making money. And he says, most American businessmen are too busy making profits in specialized areas to comprehend fundamental or over-all social considerations.

True administration, Lombard points out, is defined by Adams as the art of generalization. In other words, it is the ability to coordinate many diverse factors into a coherent whole.

Modern management, Adams asserts, has developed in the opposite direction. Specialization is the ultimate end, he says. The problem, according to both Adams and Lombard, is that American business is too specialized to do any good for itself or for the increasingly complex society in which it operates.

On this date: In 1533, the Inca king of Peru, Atahualpa, was strangled on orders of the Spanish conqueror, Francisco Pizarro.

In 1782, an English man-of-war capsized while being repaired in the harbor at Portsmouth, England. Nearly 1,100 persons drowned.

In 1778, American troops were victorious at the Revolutionary War battle of Quaker Hill, Rhode Island.

In 1935, Queen Astrid of Belgium was killed in an auto accident in Switzerland.

In 1943, during World War II, Danish warships were scuttled at Copenhagen in an uprising against the Nazis.

In 1957, the U.S. Senate passed the first civil rights bill since Reconstruction.

Ten years ago — Jordan's Premier Hazza Majall and 10 others were killed when time bombs exploded in government offices in Amman.

Five years ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson announced the end of a 75-day shipping strike on the East and Gulf coasts.

One year ago — Former film star Shirley Temple Black was named as a U.S. representative to the 24th regular session of the U.N. General Assembly.

Teachers Develop New Vocabulary

CHICAGO (AP) — An adult's average reading vocabulary ranges between 30,000 and 40,000 words, says a language specialist.

Dr. William A. LaPlante, director of curriculum and materials development for Borg-Warner Educational Systems, said despite the impressive number there are only about 300 words that make up about 50 per cent of the words most frequently appearing in normal adult reading material.

A teaching system he has devised with the aid of audio-visual systems teaches that the 300 word-core vocabulary was devised through research. It showed that it was essential to a youngster's needs.

Dear Editor: Many people in the Logan Elm District have asked the question "Is Logan Elm School District really wealthy, and, if so, why the need for more operating money?"

To answer the first part of the question, I must reply Logan Elm has the potential to finance its school with a low rate of taxation. The two mills the board of education is seeking will set the operating rate at 20 mills, which is still 6.66 mills below the state average of 26.66 mills. By way of comparison with surrounding school districts Logan Elm's operating rate will still be from four to nine mills lower than most other districts. This fact in itself reflects the potential of our school district, fortunately two mills will provide for our needs, whereas others have found it necessary to pass double and triple this amount.

We must accept the responsibility to pay for our children's education the same as anyone, so I must answer "no" we are not "wealthy" but we are indeed fortunate to live in Logan Elm School District.

The second part of the question "why the need for more operating money" may be answered very frankly, we must increase salaries for all employees, cooks, custodians, bus drivers, secretaries and teachers. Eighty per cent of our non-certified employees are being paid less than $2,000 annually. Our beginning teacher salary schedule is the lowest in the county. After completing a comparative beginning pay scale study which included 25 school districts within 35 miles of our district boundary lines I was amazed to learn all offered the beginning teacher from $400 to $1350 more than Logan Elm. You and I know low pay rates will eventually result in less qualified people to work with our children.

I think this group of employees is the finest group ever. Help us keep them. Please remember to vote for the levy on Tuesday, September 1, the opening day of school. The polls are to be open from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Test Of 18-Year Vote

When Congress took to itself the power to grant the ballot to 18-year-olds in all elections — federal, state and local — it all but intentionally passed the question of constitutionality to the United States Supreme Court. Fortunately, it appears that the court will lack no opportunity to give an answer.

The U.S. Justice Department has just filed what are the third and fourth suits testing the question. Unlike the first two, brought by Oregon and Texas against the age clause only, the department is also seeking, in suits against Arizona and Idaho, a ruling on the new law's uniform-residency clause for presidential voting and its literacy-test ban.

It would seem that Oregon and Texas offer a more clear-cut test of the 18-year vote, since they raise the direct question of overriding state constitutions by act of Congress — particularly in an area where states have long held the prerogative.

But whatever the legal technicalities, the litigants are showing commendable interest in seeking to dissipate the constitutional clouds with all reasonable speed.

Dear Editor: Many people in the Logan Elm District have asked the question "Is Logan Elm School District really wealthy, and, if so, why the need for more operating money?"

To answer the first part of the question, I must reply Logan Elm has the potential to finance its school with a low rate of taxation. The two mills the board of education is seeking will set the operating rate at 20 mills, which is still 6.66 mills below the state average of 26.66 mills. By way of comparison with surrounding school districts Logan Elm's operating rate will still be from four to nine mills lower than most other districts. This fact in itself reflects the potential of our school district, fortunately two mills will provide for our needs, whereas others have found it necessary to pass double and triple this amount.

We must accept the responsibility to pay for our children's education the same as anyone, so I must answer "no" we are not "wealthy" but we are indeed fortunate to live in Logan Elm School District.

The second part of the question "why the need for more operating money" may be answered very frankly, we must increase salaries for all employees, cooks, custodians, bus drivers, secretaries and teachers. Eighty per cent of our non-certified employees are being paid less than $2,000 annually. Our beginning teacher salary schedule is the lowest in the county. After completing a comparative beginning pay scale study which included 25 school districts within 35 miles of our district boundary lines I was amazed to learn all offered the beginning teacher from $400 to $1,350 more than Logan Elm. You and I know low pay rates will eventually result in less qualified people to work with our children.

I think this group of employees is the finest group ever. Help us keep them. Please remember to vote for the levy on Tuesday, September 1, the opening day of school. The polls are to be open from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

JOHN HENN, Superintendent

Adulteress Gives Some Sound Advice

DEAR ABBY: The woman who wrote asking why not an "Adulterers Anonymous" could have been me, but it wasn't. I, like her, have a good husband and two fine children. I know my husband loves me. If he doesn't I can't think of any reason he continues to live with me after learning about three separate affairs I've had. What he doesn't know is that there have been many others. I, too, live in constant fear that he will find out, and will not forgive me again.

You recommended that she see a psychiatrist. I already have, and it didn't help much. One year later I came away just as mixed up, and a lot less off financially.

I am not the typically trampy woman-at least not as far as appearances go. I am well-liked, attractive, and make friends easily, but if my friend's husband appeals to me, I think nothing of making another conquest. (I could go on, but it only gets more disgusting.)

The only help I have ever had came when I decided to see my minister. Tell women with a weakness for men that "inner strength" is what they need, and if they really want to change, they can, but they can never do it alone. God is the answer. I know.

BEEN THERE
DEAR BEEN: Thank you for sharing your success story. Sometimes the answer is so obvious it is overlooked.

DEAR ABBY: This is a very serious problem with me and its no made-up story, so I wish you would answer me fast.

I am almost 17, and I'm in love with my neighbor who is married and has children. She is really the greatest person I have ever met and is exactly what I want in a wife. She doesn't know how I feel about her and she treats me like she would any other neighbor kid. Her husband is a great guy and I like him, too. In fact,

I find myself trying to copy him so his wife will notice me more. I see a lot of her now that school is out and it has torn me up.

I can't get interested in any girl my own age because none of them compares with this neighbor. I have had this feeling for her for about a year now and I can't get over it. I make good grades, have lots of friends, go to church and am usually very sensible but I'm afraid I may end up with a nervous breakdown if I don't get her off my mind soon. How can I stop loving her?

PASADENA, TEX.
DEAR PAS: This is not love. It's a "crush." And you CAN get over it if you get out and mingle with kids your own age and keep yourself occupied mentally and physically. (Exercise is a great outlet for frustrated emotions.) Quit mooning and swooning and drooling and dreaming. Wake up, man, there's a cute 16-year-old girl who is just waiting for you to look her way. And if you don't discover her by next Sunday, hang around after church and ask your minister if you can talk to him about something. Then, level with him.

DEAR ABBY: My baby is not due for another six months, but I have a problem. My mother lives hundreds of miles away, and although I know she means well, she is a worrywart, and that is why I haven't told her that I am pregnant yet. You see, this is my first pregnancy and I have been having quite a bit of trouble, and there is still a chance that I might lose the baby, and if my mother knew about it, she'd be here in two minutes, worrying herself sick and making me nervous. Also, she's the kind who would run out and buy baby clothes and baby furniture, and if I were to lose the baby it would break her heart. Am I wrong not to tell her yet? I don't want to upset her.

UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: I suspect you are more fearful of having your mother visit you and upsetting you than upsetting herself. Ask your doctor when he thinks you should tell your mother.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SUPERSTITIOUS": I am not questioning the "good luck" that supposedly accompanies the rabbit's foot. All I said was, "It didn't do much for the rabbit."

Solons Refuse To Put Lid On Arms Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate refused today to clamp a spending ceiling on the Pentagon.

It defeated a request for a general $5.2 billion cut from President Nixon's defense budget of $71.2 billion.

Previously in the month-long debate on the $19.2 billion military procurement bill the Senate refused repeatedly to cut back spending for specific weapons programs.

Today, senators rejected an amendment by Sens. William Proxmire, R-Wis., and Charles Mathias, R-Md., to limit general military spending in fiscal 1971 to $66 billion, a 7 per cent across-the-board cut.

The vote to reject was 42 to 31. Proxmire and Mathias contended up to $14 billion could be cut from spending programs they labeled unnecessary at best and grossly wasteful at worst.

"You just can't stop the machine so fast in such a short period of time," said Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., in a counterattack.

Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, declared a cut of such size would mean eliminating more than two million jobs: a million in the defense industry and a million in direct Pentagon employment.

"A thoroughly documented, reasonable and responsible case has been made for cuts totaling $10 billion to $14 billion," Proxmire said.

He and Mathias contend the money saved can be used better to meet domestic needs, and to reduce a prospective $10 billion to $15 billion budget deficit. Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee and manager of the pending procurement bill, said this year's defense budget is already some $5 billion under last year's.

The Proxmire-Mathias amendment, he said, would require a $10 billion reduction in a year. And because the fiscal year is already two months old, he said, money is still being spent at last year's levels.

Thus a multibillion-dollar cut would have to be absorbed from current programs. "That's ridiculous," Stennis said. "That's worse than a broad meat ax cut. It would bring chaos. It would cause massive turmoil. This will push us perilously close to a state of unpreparedness."

Proxmire disagreed. He recited a long list of programs criticized for billion-dollar overruns, wasteful procedures, faulty end products, for failing to meet schedule deadlines or contract specifications.

He said many of the Pentagon's 492 major and nearly 3,000 minor bases are no longer needed, that savings can be brought by reducing the level of U.S. troops to 2.5 million men. He suggested additional savings could be made on food procurement, on rotation and leave policies, and on such weapons programs as the B-1 bomber and the MBT-70 tank and on antisubmarine warfare devices.

How Far Do We Go In Cambodia?

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Statements by administration officials on Cambodia in recent days have left President Nixon with wide latitude for future U.S. activities there. But how deeply he intends to commit the United States remains unclear.

Administration critics fear the U.S. commitment to Cambodia is deepening much as it did in Vietnam in the 1960s.

They point to the new $40 million military assistance pact, intensified U.S. air strikes and statements from high officials—like Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who said, "We're going to do everything we can to help the Lon Nol government."

Administration officials, however, insist there is no commitment. They say the reason for helping Cambodia is not to keep the present government in power but to protect American forces in South Vietnam and to assure the success of the Vietnamization program for turning the fighting over to the South Vietnamese so American troops can come home.

Whatever the rationale, the events of recent days would appear to indicate the creeping commitment to keep the Lon Nol government in power and the Communists out of Cambodia.

On his first Asian trip, seven months ago, Agnew predicted the policy of non-involvement "in any other combat activities" in Southeast Asia unless the President and Congress agree the situation was "very extreme."

Sunday, while returning for his second Asian visit, the Vice President declared "the whole matter of Cambodia is related to the security of our troops in Vietnam."

A Communist takeover in Cambodia, he said, "would make it impossible for the Vietnamization program and the disengagement of American troops."

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told a news conference Wednesday he had no trouble reconciling the Pentagon position with that of the Vice President.

When asked about the use of U.S. air power in Cambodia, Laird said, "If we can destroy enemy supplies, destroy enemy troops in Cambodia with a minimum casualty rate, I'm for it and I will authorize it."

This was the broadest use yet suggested for sending U.S. planes into Cambodia since the American troops abandoned the Cambodian sanctuaries in June. Despite the $40 million in military aid, the stepped-up air strikes and the rhetoric of government officials, the Nixon administration claims to have remained within the boundaries of its policy of helping Cambodia as outlined by a high White House official for newsmen June 30.

The official said "a reasonable amount of military assistance" would be given Cambodia and the administration "will do what we reasonably can to support the Asian countries in that area, to protect the integrity and neutrality and sovereignty of Cambodia."

"What we will not do, insofar as the dividing line can be drawn," the official said, "is to fight a Cambodian war with American forces."

The administration believes domestic public sentiment is against a wider U.S. combat involvement and has committed itself to withdrawing from Vietnam.

In the view of administration officials, however, U.S. airpower does not represent any further commitment of U.S. forces to another country.

Saxbe is in Columbus to attend the Ohio State Fair and to plug a bill he and three other Senators introduced Thursday that would provide "cradle to grave" medical care.

He expects considerable opposition to the bill, which would set up a fund similar to the current social security program to which employer, employees and the government contribute. The bill would provide complete medical attention for everyone and would encourage group practice by medical specialists.

"It's a very ambitious plan," Saxbe said. "It may not pass now, but some day we will have it. It's never popular to be in the vanguard."

Saxbe admitted that some of his ideas do not set well with Republicans and conceded Agnew is very popular in Ohio.

But the Ohio senator said he thought Agnew had gone too far when he questioned the loyalty of senators who oppose some administration policies. Saxbe likened some of the vice president's remarks to those of the McCarthy era "when there was a 'Communist under every bush.'"

When asked about the use of U.S. air power in Cambodia, Laird said, "If we can destroy enemy supplies, destroy enemy troops in Cambodia with a minimum casualty rate, I'm for it and I will authorize it."

This was the broadest use yet suggested for sending U.S. planes into Cambodia since the American troops abandoned the Cambodian sanctuaries in June.

Despite the $40 million in military aid, the stepped-up air strikes and the rhetoric of government officials, the Nixon administration claims to have remained within the boundaries of its policy of helping Cambodia as outlined by a high White House official for newsmen June 30.

The official said "a reasonable amount of military assistance" would be given Cambodia and the administration "will do what we reasonably can to support the Asian countries in that area, to protect the integrity and neutrality and sovereignty of Cambodia."

"What we will not do, insofar as the dividing line can be drawn," the official said, "is to fight a Cambodian war with American forces."

The administration believes domestic public sentiment is against a wider U.S. combat involvement and has committed itself to withdrawing from Vietnam.

In the view of administration officials, however, U.S. airpower does not represent any further commitment of U.S. forces to another country.

Saxbe is in Columbus to attend the Ohio State Fair and to plug a bill he and three other Senators introduced Thursday that would provide "cradle to grave" medical care.

He expects considerable opposition to the bill, which would set up a fund similar to the current social security program to which employer, employees and the government contribute. The bill would provide complete medical attention for everyone and would encourage group practice by medical specialists.

"It's a very ambitious plan," Saxbe said. "It may not pass now, but some day we will have it. It's never popular to be in the vanguard."

Saxbe admitted that some of his ideas do not set well with Republicans and conceded Agnew is very popular in Ohio.

But the Ohio senator said he thought Agnew had gone too far when he questioned the loyalty of senators who oppose some administration policies. Saxbe likened some of the vice president's remarks to those of the McCarthy era "when there was a 'Communist under every bush.'"

Hughes-Woolwine Marriage Vows Exchanged In Presbyterian Church

MRS. GEORGE MAKHAM WOOLWINE

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Mary Lynne Hughes and Mr. George Makham Woolwine 2:30 p.m. Aug. 15. The Rev. Henry A. Walters performed the double ring service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McClure Hadyn Hughes, 122 W Union St., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. LaFayette M. Woolwine, Princeton, Ky.

The altar of First Presbyterian Church was decorated for the wedding with baskets of white gladioli, carnations and daisy pompons at either side. Two silver candlesticks with tall tapers were placed on the altar table. Emerald palms were on the altar and at both sides. A prelude of organ selections was played by Mr. Jack Mader.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white embroidered lawn A-line floor length gown with high embroidered neck band and featuring Juliet sleeves and yoke of imported lawn. Tiny embroidered covered buttons accented the back of the dress. An elbow length single tier veil of illusion fell from an open-crown Juliet cap of embroidered lawn. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies to which was attached a lace handkerchief made by the bride's late maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ralph M. Boggs, and also carried by her mother on her wedding day.

Honor attendants were Mrs. Mrs. Thomas O. Moorhead (Mary Mader), Miss Jane Mader. They wore identical costumes of powder blue embroidered lawn. The floor length gowns were in the A-line design with high embroidered neck bands and short puffed sleeves. They wore matching powder blue organza open-crown picture hats with matching bows at the back and carried white baskets of white and blue daisies with blue delphinium and matching blue bows.

Mr. Charles Scroggin, Lexington, Ky., served as best man for the bridegroom. Ushers were Mr. James Newsom, Princeton, Ky.; Mr. Wallace Bryan, Hopkinsville, Ky., and Mr. Ted Buchanan, Lebanon, Ind.

Mrs. Hughes selected for her daughter's wedding a short-sleeved coral linen sheath dress with matching Dior bow, white accessories and a corsage of white daisies. Mrs. Woolwine wore an aqua ribbed silk skimmer dress trimmed with matching lace at the empire waist and a brief veil with organdy petals. Her corsage was also of white daisies.

A reception in the church social room immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a blue cloth and a bouffant net overlay caught with blue forget-me-nots and blue bows. The three tiered cake was topped with a nosegay of white and blue daisies, accented at the base and down the center of the table with daisies and leather leaf fern.

Hostesses were Miss Ellisa Evans, Circleville; Mrs. Charles Scroggin and Mrs. Ronald Woodard, Lexington, Ky., and Miss Carolyn Stark, Elizabethtown, Ky. Miss Susan Butz of Circleville presided at the guest book.

For a wedding trip to the Natural Bridge in Kentucky, the bride changed to a dark green sleeveless linen wrap-around dress with a green printed scarf and brown accessories. Her corsage was of daisy mums. The couple now resides at 110 State St., Lexington, Ky.

The new Mrs. Woolwine is a graduate of Circleville High School, received an associate of arts degree from Virginia Intermont College, Bristol, Va., a graduate of the University of Kentucky and a member of Kappa Delta sorority. She is employed as a teacher in the Lexington, Ky., city schools.

Mr. Woolwine graduated from Princeton High School and the college of engineering at the University of Kentucky where he is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. He is presently enrolled in engineering graduate school at the University of Kentucky.

Out-of-state guests at the wedding were from Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan.

A dinner for the wedding party was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. LaFayette Woolwine at Pickaway Arms following rehearsal, Friday, Aug. 14.

First Impressions Count When Interviewed For Job

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

For many young men, fresh from college or from service, this has been the last summer off, a vacation fling before settling down to serious business.

After Labor Day (September 7), personnel agencies and company hiring offices will be swamped with applicants in search of steady jobs — it happens every year! The point for job-seekers to remember is that first impressions count.

Appearance is what triggers a first impression. A job interviewer is apt to be more impressed with a Phi Beta Kappa key if it's not pinned on a gravy-stained tie or a too-casual sports shirt.

A survey of interviews at top employment agencies reveals the following consensus: Neat is not synonymous with square. You can be moderately mod and well-groomed but, most agencies caution, it is wisest to go the conservative route where clothes are concerned — at least for the first meeting. Once you are hired, you can adapt to the dress norm of your particular job situation.

Here are some of the things, other than resume and transcript, that interviewers admit they note:

Hair: Is it clean and well-trimmed? Side burns and longer hair in back are permissible — in moderation.

Shirt: Are all buttons on cuffs, collars and down the front? Check buttons on jacket sleeves occasionally, too.

Tie: Is it clean and unwrinkled?

Slacks: Are they freshly creased, not too tight and not too short at the cuffs?

Socks: Don't think they don't show. They do, and so does your shin if you're not wearing over-the-calf socks. Eliminate calf gap and present a well-groomed appearance, especially when you cross your legs, by wearing over-the-calf socks.

Shoes: Are they polished — also well-heeled and soled?

Manners and mannerisms also count during an interview. Good eye contact is a must.

Avoid nervous mannerisms, such as buttoning and unbuttoning your jacket, chuffing your feet, drumming your fingers.

Don't lean across the interviewer's desk. Don't prop your chin up by resting an elbow on his desk.

Don't smoke unless you ask permission to light up, and don't ask unless you spot a convenient ash tray.

Wait wisely. You can sometimes score extra points if you read company literature while you are sitting in the reception room.

Don't underestimate the importance, not only to the interviewer but to yourself, of being well-groomed. When you know you look right, it bolsters your confidence and helps allay a case of job-hunting jitters.

Denny McLain Suspended In Water Bucket Escapade

By LARRY PALADINO Associated Press Sports Writer DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tiger bad boy Denny McLain, shocked at the suspension imposed on him Friday night by General Manager Jim Campbell, lashed out at him for "never standing behind his players" and said, "I got down on my knees and begged to be traded."

in the darkened Tiger Stadium parking lot about midnight. "I was just clowning around, that was easy to see," he explained. About 45 minutes earlier Campbell suspended McLain "for an indefinite period not to exceed 30 days for conduct unbecoming a professional baseball player."

to Oakland McLain had dumped a pail of water on him in the clubhouse. It was the second suspension for the cocky pitcher this year. After being under indefinite suspension during spring training, baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn formally suspended McLain April 1 for associating with gamblers in 1967. That suspension was lifted July 1 and Denny returned that day to pitch for Detroit.

The two-time Cy Young Award winner, who won 31 games in 1968 and 24 last season, said he planned to telephone Marvin Miller, executive director of the Baseball Players Association, and see if Miller could get the suspension lifted. Since his return McLain has started 15 games. He has a 3-5 record and 4.65 earned-run average, giving up 19 home runs in the span.

Bradshaw Pinpoints Steeler Win

By D. BYRON YAKE Associated Press Sports Writer PITTSBURGH (AP) — Quarterback Terry Bradshaw counted the $84 in cash he got from the Pittsburgh Steelers after the exhibition victory over the New York Giants.

ter—there are others who are sure of his value. The blond quarterback ripped apart the Giants secondary completing 15 of 23 passes for 244 yards and threw a 37-yard touchdown pass as the Steelers moved down New York 21-6 Friday night in a preseason game. It was the first football game ever at the new Three Rivers Stadium.

Friday's incident occurred after McLain also dumped a pail of water on Jim Hawkins, baseball writer for the Detroit Free Press. "It was a setup — all a big joke," McLain told Larry Paladino, Associated Press sports writer. "You were going to get it too, and so was Rich Shook from UPI."

Campbell called Denny into his office after the game, with manager Mayo Smith in attendance. "I'll tell you what I did and this is the truth," Denny said, running his hands through his thick blond hair. "I got down on my hands and knees in Campbell's office and begged to be traded because of the way he has handled team matters in the last three or four years."

CO-CAPTAINS — Dick Radcliff (55) and Doyle Kiser (44) have been elected to share the captain's spot on the Circleville High School football squad. The senior gridders were selected by their teammates to be the leaders on the field. Both young men are lettermen and fill key spots in the Tiger's grid prospects.

In Friday night's other exhibition game, the Washington Redskins capitalized on Buffalo Bill errors for a 27-0 victory. The Redskins got touchdowns on short runs by Charley Harraway and Bob Brunet, and a 19-yard Frank Ryan-to-Jerry Smith pass. Eight games are in the offing tonight—Baltimore at Miami, Kansas City at Atlanta, Chicago at St. Louis, Cleveland at Cincinnati, Dallas at Houston, Los Angeles at San Diego, Boston vs. New Orleans at Jackson, Miss., and San Francisco vs. Denver at Eugene, Ore. The Steelers now have won two straight exhibition games after an opening loss to Miami. Last year they were 1-13 and that disastrous season is the reason why they had a chance to get Bradshaw.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS — Members of the Circleville High School football coaching staff gather on the turf of the Tiger's field. Slumping Reds Lose, 4-3 In 10th Inning To Expos

MONTREAL (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds are grasping for a good habit they seem to have lost—winning. The Montreal Expos began stripping the Reds of the habit two weeks ago in Cincinnati and they have not let up. The National League east cellar-dwellers nipped Cincinnati 4-3 in 10 innings Friday night, sending the Reds to their third straight defeat and seventh in their last 10 games. "You want to get things going so you can have some momentum when you go into the playoffs," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson who was about the only one in the clubhouse who had any comments. The Expos took a series from the Reds in the Queen City two weeks ago two games to none

Former Ohioan Wins Title In Grand Handicap Shoot

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — Two Ohioans were among the five finalists in Friday night's shootoff for the prize of prizes at the Grand American Trapshooting tournament here, but a former Ohioan now living in Iowa took all the marbles. Charles Harvey, a 30-year-old bachelor from Oskaloosa, Iowa, won the Grand American Handicap title with a gun he bought only Thursday. Harvey originally was from Zanesville, Ohio, where his parents still live. The five shootoff finalists all had broken 98 of 100 targets in the regular event. A field of 2,953 had started shooting early Friday morning. Harvey's victory will be worth $4,000-$5,000, depending on how the melon is cut between him and the other finalists—Jack Neal, Athens, Ohio; Lloyd Combs, Winchester, Va.; William Weikamp, Independence, Ohio, and Charles J. Krallinger, West Chester, Pa. Harvey, who sports ear plugs and ear muffs on the firing line, said after his victory, "I was scared all the time I was out there, but you can't think too much while you're shooting." It was Harvey's fourth trip to the Grand since he began shooting in 1962, but his first victory in any event.

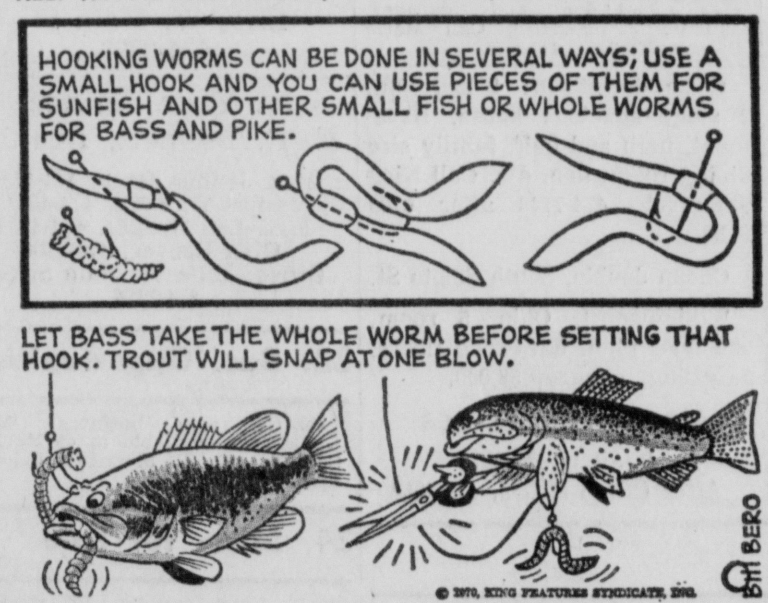

and that started the Reds off on the wrong foot. "I don't know if they try harder against us than other teams or what," Anderson said. "I know we don't take them lightly. Preston Gomez (San Diego's manager) was telling me that they couldn't catch a fly ball before we went in there. Then they played real good against us." "I'll tell you this. Now is the time we have to go get it. The time is now to show we can close this thing off. That's what a good team—a championship team—does." Despite the Reds' efforts in their last 10 games, they have been able to maintain a sizable lead over the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League's West Division. Boots Day lashed a two-out single off ace reliever Wayne Granger to end the game. The Reds had tied the contest 3-3 in the eighth as Bobby Tolson cracked his 12th homer and one man was on. The Reds were able to manage only one other run off starter Bill Stoneman, who is 4-13 and has not won a game since June 18. Claude Raymond picked up the victory in relief.

Aussies To Meet U.S. In Cup Race NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Bill Fesq was hailed today as the hero of Australia's victory over France to become the challenger to the United States in the famed America's Cup yachting race next month. Fesq is the navigator for Grete II, the Australian yacht out of Sydney, which on Friday completed a 4-0 sweep over the French Boat, France, in their best-of-7 series to determine the challenger against either Intrepid or Valiant of America.

Mary K Creed Wins At Scioto Downs Mary K Creed, owned by Mary K. Fissell of Circleville, won the third race at Scioto Downs Friday. The brown mare, driven by Lloyd Dillon, covered the mile in 2:05.3 and paid $8.60, $4.40 and 3.20.

Bats Vs. Pitching In LL Championship

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Wayne, N.J., counted on its powerful bats against the stingy pitching of Campbell, Calif., today in the Little League World Series championship game. Wayne has been the most impressive tournament team so far, crushing Valleyfield, Que., 10-0 and shutting out Highland, Ind., 4-0. In the 10-0 contest, Steve O'Neil threw a no-hitter.

Three Leaders In Dow Jones Golf Classic

By DAVE GOLDBERG CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Orville Moody might be a former U.S. Open champion and the Indian of the year, but he was just another struggling golfer until he got a little help from a friend. Moody, who won the Open and the World Series of Golf last year, but is far down the money list this year, used a little advice offered by fellow pro Phil Rodgers to fire a course-record 64 Friday. Moody tied Bruce Crampton and Paul Harney for the lead with a 136 at the halfway point of the Dow Jones Open. Moody, Crampton and Harney, all eight-under-par, are one stroke ahead of Labron Harris and two ahead of Bobby Nichols. Young Mike Reaser, the first-round leader, shot a 73 and was in a group at 139 with Larry Hinson, Terry Wilcox and PGA champion Dave Stockton. Most of golf's biggest names were well out of the running as par took a beating for the second straight day on the 7,085-

Bengals, Browns Tangle Tonight

By HAROLD HARISON
Associated Press Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Neither the Cleveland Browns nor the Cincinnati Bengals have been very impressive offensively thus far but that won't detract even a "smidgin" from their National Football League pre-season game here tonight.

It will be the first meeting between the two Ohio pro football teams.

It will pit the Browns, created, built and coached originally by Paul Brown, against the Bengals, created, built and coached by the same Paul Brown.

And Brown's name is a famous one in Ohio football. He started building his coaching reputation at Massillon High School, continued it at Ohio State and Great Lakes Naval Training Station and then moved into the pro ranks.

In 35 years of coaching, Brown's teams have won 303 games, lost 95 and tied 16.

The game is expected to draw close to 60,000 at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium. It will be the first of three between the two teams this season. They'll meet in a home-and-home series during the regular NFL campaign.

Both teams have 1-2 records thus far in the pre-season competition. The Bengals defeated Washington and then were soundly trounced by both Miami and St. Louis. The Browns lost to Los Angeles, beat San Francisco and then were edged out by the defending World Champion Kansas City Chiefs.

The Bengals are hurting for a quarterback. Greg Cook is out for the season because of a shoulder operation and neither Sam Wyche nor rookie Dave Lewis has been able to produce much of a passing offense. As a result, the running attack has suffered and the two quarterbacks — Wyche and Lewis — have the best ground-gaining averages on the team.

Only one of the Browns' five touchdowns scored thus far has been on a running play and they don't have a back with more than a 5.4 yard average. The Bengals acquired two new quarterbacks this week — Bob Davis from the New York Giants and Virgil Carter from the Buffalo Bills — but neither is expected to see much, if any, action tonight.

The game in the 56,000-seat stadium has been sold out for about two weeks and standing room tickets went on sale this week.

Second Year Men Win Browns Spots

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Two second year men appear to have won spots in the receiving department with the Cleveland Browns.

Fair Hooker, formerly of LIB RIB—This placard at a Women's Liberation hoopla in New York goes back a long way. It seems clear that only some snakes would do a thing like that.

With another season of eligibility left, flanker Ernie Jennings from Kansas City holds career football records at the U.S. Air Force Academy for touchdown passes caught, kickoff returns and kickoff return yardage.

Arizona State, has repulsed the challenge of Homer Jones as a replacement for departed Paul Warfield and shows no indication that he is about to give up the job.

Dave Jones, also a wide receiver, is outplaying the opposition for backup man behind flanker Gary Collins.

Hooker has caught 12 passes for 196 yards in three exhibition games and leads all the receivers by a wide margin. He was a close observer of Warfield's moves last season and has picked up some of them.

Coach Blanton Collier was asked Thursday if the trade for Homer Jones would have been made if Hooker's improvement had been anticipated.

"Yes, I'm not unhappy with that trade," the coach replied. "We still need depth in receiving. Homer, of course, still has to learn our system. I believe he will help us, however."

Collier said he wouldn't have traded Warfield except that Bob Bussbaumer, the coach of the receivers, had confidence in Hooker.

"He felt that he was coming along and eventually would be able to do the job," the coach continued. "It's true that he's improved at a faster rate than we anticipated."

Dave Jones says it is somewhat easier at the Browns' training camp this summer because he knows the club's system and what's expected of him.

He has been catching the ball well in practice and performing as Collins' replacement in the exhibitions. He also did well on the specialty teams against the Kansas City Chiefs.

U.S. Swimmers Sweep Medals

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Don Easterling had a word of caution today as the American men swimmers tried for a sweep of their events in the World University Games. This would equal their feat of going unbeaten in the University Games at Tokyo in 1967.

Easterling, the men's swimming coach, said "I am happy because the boys have not lost one single race, but I am not completely satisfied with their performances. Some could have done better."

"I know they are tired," Easterling continued. "We have had very little time to train here in Turin, but that won't make me change my mind. I can only hope that the boys will tie their Tokyo record and keep on winning."

The American males won three and the U.S. girls two on Friday for a clean sweep of the five gold medals at stake. Today they attempted to sweep six finals.

Lynn Colella of Seattle won the 100-meter butterfly in one minute, 66 seconds and Evelyn Kosner of Sacramento State took the 400 meter freestyle in 4:43.7 for the two U.S. women victories Friday.

The three men triumphs went to Mitch Ivey of Long Beach State in 100 meter backstroke in 59.4, Steve Power of the University of Washington in the 400 meter medley in 4:46.1 and Don Havens, James McConica, Dave O'Malley and Frank Hecki in the 400 meter freestyle relay in 3:33.3.

Meantime the U.S. basketball team crushed Senegal 101-41 to complete a three-game sweep in the group five elimination round.

Illness Of Witness Halts Tate Murder Case Testimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Testimony about the stabbing of a woman market owner stopped suddenly at the Sharon Tate murder trial as defendant Susan Atkins, ashen faced, laid her head on the counsel table and complained of illness.

The judge recessed court two hours early Friday and arranged a medical examination for Miss Atkins. The results were not announced.

Earlier, the 21-year-old defendant was briefly examined by the jail doctor when she complained of pains in her side. As court opened, Miss Atkins, usually bouncy and smiling, shuffled listlessly into the courtroom wearing a blue denim jail uniform and rubber sandals. She leaned her head on the shoulder of codefendant Patricia Krenwinkel, 22.

Testimony was delayed 1 1/4 hours while the doctor looked at her, then declared her fit to resume the session. But after lunch Miss Atkins asked to talk to the judge and told him she was too sick to continue.

Auto Crash Injures 4

Circleville Police department investigated an accident at 5:24 p.m. Friday at the intersection of S. Court St. and Mound St. in which four persons from Reading were injured.

Driver of one of the automobiles was Karl K. Riesenberger, Reading. He was traveling west on Mound St. when a car driven by Ben L. Jenkins, Warsaw, Mo., ran a red light at the intersection and struck the Riesenberger car.

The auto was driven into a brick wall and then smashed into 30 feet of iron fence owned by Mrs. Charles May, 255 S. Court St.

Four passengers in the Riesenberger auto were taken to the Berger Hospital emergency room with cuts and abrasions where they were treated and released.

Driver Cited, Two Injured In Collision

Two were injured and one driver cited in two double car collisions investigated Friday by the local Highway Patrol.

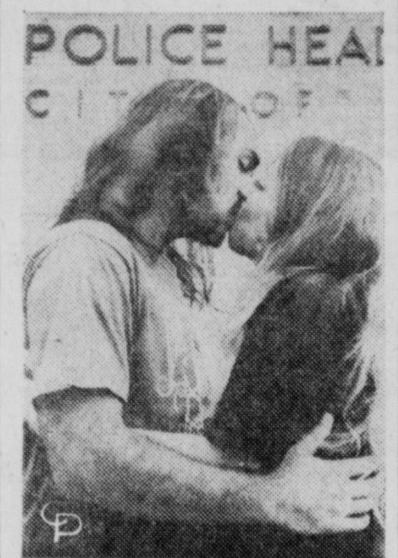

A Columbus man, Eugene Downs, was cited for failure to yield the right of way in a two-vehicle crash at the intersection of Route 22 and 104 at almost 3 p.m. yesterday.

Downs stopped for the red flashers on 104 and, apparently thinking the way clear, proceeded across the intersection. He pulled out and into the side of a car driven by 68-year-old Edward Owens, Route 2, rolling it over.

Owens suffered minor injuries and was referred for treatment to his physician. Also injured slightly was a passenger in the Downs auto, 13-year-old Kathy Rodecker, also of Columbus. She was not treated.

A second, minor accident with no injuries was investigated by Highway Patrolmen Friday on County Road 511 at the North Court Shopping Center. Robert Smallwood, 47, of Route 1 was pulling from the grocery parking lot. He moved onto the roadway and into the right side of another car operated by Paul Stevens, 64, also Route 1. Both cars received moderate damage.

No citations were issued to either driver.

Turmoil Mounts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Civil Aeronautics Board attempt to set air fares has brought a flood of complaints and triggered an industry-wide quarrel over rates.

Even 32 congressmen who won a court order outlawing fare increases earlier this year appear somewhat appalled at the resulting turmoil.

They suggested Thursday it might be best for the CAB to leave the illegal fares in effect long enough to determine what is legal.

The problem dates back to last fall when the CAB rejected proposed fare increases as excessive. As a substitute, the CAB set a 6.35 per cent rate hike for the 11 trunk lines and 7 per cent for the nine local-service airlines.

The new fares went into effect last Oct. 1.

But the group of congressmen filed suit and the U.S. Court of Appeals invalidated the new fares on grounds the CAB had approved the schedule without due public notice.

Following orders of the CAB, the airlines filed revised fares to be effective Oct. 15. The CAB plans to rule on these by Sept. 15.

The new fare proposals differ sharply, and the airlines are at odds over them.

The group of congressmen charged Thursday all of the new filings are tainted by the illegal CAB order of last Sept. 12.

They said there is a serious question on the manner in which the new fare proposals were arrived at, because letters of instruction from individual airlines to their common agent, the Airline Tariff Publishers, Inc., have been made available to other airlines.

The net result was a substantially similar tariff filing by a number of carriers, thus raising the issue of possible violation of antitrust laws, they said.

The congressmen asked the CAB to suspend its investigation of the new fare proposals while it determines the fares that should apply. Meanwhile, the group said, the CAB either should roll back the fares to the level that prevailed last Sept. 30, or leave the current illegal fares in effect until legal fares have been established.

The jury returned an innocent verdict for Frederick Johnson, Brewer's employer at the Peninsular Candy Co., who also had been charged with bribery.

The candy firm operates pinball machines. Ellenberger testified that Brewer gave him money after he became sheriff in January, 1969, and told him: "It's a policy that the sheriff gets this money every month."

Ellenberger pleaded guilty previously to a federal charge of perjury for telling a grand jury in Toledo he did not receive payoffs. Brewer and another former sheriff, Myron Hetrick, also face federal perjury charges.

Heavy Rains Hit Cities In New England

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Clear and mild weather covered a large part of the nation today, but thundershowers dampened weekend activities in sections of the West, the Northeast, the Southeast and the North.

Rainfall generally was light in the predawn hours following heavy downpours in some areas late Friday.

Severe thundershowers raked southern New England and dumped more than 2 1/2 inches of rain into Providence, R.I. More than an inch came down in less than an hour and produced heavy flooding in some Providence streets.

Up to a foot of water filled some streets in Cranston and Warwick, R. I., after a soaking thundershower.

Blistering heat persisted in the Central and Southern Plains. The mercury hit 100 in Kansas City again Friday, the 14th day this summer the temperature has reached that mark or higher there.

Cooler air spread over to Pacific Northwest, but the change brought little moisture to parched inland areas where prolonged heat and rainless weeks have produced dangerously dry forestlands.

Forest fires in north-central Washington, ignited by lightning storms last weekend, had burned over nearly 88,000 acres by Friday night. Some 7,000 men from forests across the nation were on the fire lines.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 43 at Marquette and Pellston, Mich., to 94 at Needles and Blythe, Calif.

Gov. Maddox Shaken During Plane Landing

STATESBORO, Ga. (AP) — "It sure was a sudden stop." That's how Gov. Lester Maddox described the landing of a light plane carrying him and three other persons at Statesboro Airport Friday.

The plane's pilot, Terry O. White, said the landing gear apparently collapsed when the craft touched the runway and the plane skidded 400 feet before stopping.

Heavy Rains Hit Cities In New England

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clear and mild weather covered a large part of the nation today, but thundershowers dampened weekend activities in sections of the West, the Northern Plains, the Southeast and the Northeast.

Rainfall generally was light in the predawn hours following heavy downpours in some areas late Friday.

Severe thunderstorms raked southern New England and dumped more than 2½ inches of rain into Providence, R.I. More than an inch came down in less than an hour and produced heavy flooding in some Providence streets.

Up to a foot of water filled some streets in Cranston and Warwick, R. I., after a soaking thundershower.

Blistering heat persisted in the Central and Southern Plains. The mercury hit 100 in Kansas City again Friday, the 14th day this summer the temperature has reached that mark or higher there.

Cooler air spread over to Pacific Northwest, but the change brought little moisture to parched inland areas where prolonged heat and rainless weeks have produced dangerously dry forestlands.

Forest fires in north-central Washington, ignited by lightning storms last weekend, had burned over nearly 88,000 acres by Friday night. Some 7,000 men from forests across the nation were on the fire lines.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 43 at Marquette and Pellston, Mich., to 91 at Needles and Blythe, Calif.
